

A GOLD, SNOWY SUNDAY.

The First Taste of Real Winter for to these Many Days

SETS IN SATURDAY AND LASTS

In Good Shape through Sunday, bringing out a Few Cutters, but the slighting is not Much Good—A Quiet, Orderly Sabbath, with the Laws Enforced.

Reform seems to be the watchword of the day. The latest reform is that of the weather clerk, who has been turning out some of the most beastly weather that ever disgraced any climate. On Saturday he took a notion to have a little decent winter, just a sort of reminiscence of the good old-fashioned winters which everybody has been throwing up to him. Considerable snow fell, and the thermometer got down below thirty for several consecutive hours. Yesterday, too, snow fell in moderate quantities at intervals, and the indications were good for a little winter weather, which will be a very acceptable change from the rain and mud of the first half of the season.

A few sleighs were brought out Saturday night and one or two people tried it yesterday, but the roads were too rough and the snow too thin for any enjoyment, and nobody kept up the alleged sport for any length of time. The children had skating and coasting tracks polished off in great shape early in the day, and they kept up their sports on the sidewalks all day in spite of the Sabbath.

There were not fewer than a hundred falls Saturday night, and a few yesterday, but no accident of any serious character was heard of. It was so novel a thing to the average denizen of this valley to have snow or ice, enough to slip on that all who did slip and take a tumble regarded the matter in a good natured way, and there was a sound of mirth all along the streets Saturday night, and they were much more thickly thronged with people than usual even on a fine evening.

NO BEER SOLD IN TOWN.

But People Got Plenty Over the Hill in Fulton—An Orderly Day.

The quietness and order on the streets yesterday was a noticeable feature of the day. Part of this state of affairs was doubtless due to the winter weather, which kept people indoors largely, but a great deal of it was also due to the fact that the saloons were again compelled to observe the Sunday laws. So far as could be learned no saloon was selling in the city, though two or three which have also restaurants were open for the lunch counter business. People who tried to get something to drink at these places testified that it could not be done. It did not take the boys long, however, to get onto the fact that by going out to Fulton they could get comfortably tanked in short order on the favorite drink of the realm. The motors did a good business and a good many people walked over the hill for their beloved beverage.

There was only one arrest yesterday afternoon. A man who gave his name as J. H. McGrew, and said he was from Washington, Pa., went into Mr. T. T. Hutchinson's residence, and asked for something to eat. Mrs. Hutchinson laid down her book and eyeglasses and went downstairs to get him a meal. When she came up he was gone, and were the costly gold spectacles. Officers Donley and Moran caught the man a few minutes after and he was locked up.

THE MARK TWAIN BOYS

Fest and Reune—The Election of Officers for the Year.

At the first meeting of the Mark Twain Rod and Gun club in the year 1892, held last night on the boat, the election of officers was held, resulting as follows: Frank J. Healy, president; James R. Travis, vice president; H. J. McGivern, secretary, and Samuel Larnhart, treasurer. A large number of invited guests were present and partook of a bountiful repast, prepared by the members, consisting of a six-course dinner, as follows: Soup of different kinds; vegetables—beans, lima, army and French; fish—crabs, deviled, and lobsters; roast beef and potatoes; corn, beef and cabbage; desert—ice cream, frozen custard, cranberry tarts, nuts, oranges, etc., etc.

After the repast an enjoyable reunion was held, which was participated in by the many guests, who left the boat fully satisfied that the Mark Twain club knows how to treat its adherents right in every particular. The club hereafter each Sunday intends giving a repast to its many friends, and in the near future will hold the annual ball, of which due notice will be given through the papers.

O. U. A. M. ANNIVERSARY.

Rev. C. M. Alford Preaches a Sermon on the Motto of the Order:

INDUSTRY, HONESTY, SOBRIETY.

How Habits of Industry may be Learned from the Insects—Honesty is the best Policy—Intemperance is the Country's Curse.

Washington Council No. 1, O. U. A. M., attended the services at the Third Presbyterian church yesterday in a body. Rev. C. M. Alford delivered a sermon in honor of the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of the council.

Mr. Alford selected three texts to enforce the three principle thoughts of his sermon.

Proverbs 6, 6—"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise."

2 Corinthians, 8, 21—"Providing for honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men."

1 Thessalonians, 5, 8—"But let us who are of the day be sober."

After giving a cordial welcome to the members of the order, the speaker said: "It is not my intention to attempt to instruct you on the principles and workings of your order, for you are more familiar with them than I am; but I have chosen as the theme of the hour your most excellent motto: 'Industry, Honesty and Sobriety.' These three graces beautifully harmonize. If a man is honest, he will be industrious, and if he is industrious and honest he will be sober."

THE FIRST STAR IN THIS CONSTELLATION IS INDUSTRY.

God very often uses the little things of the world to teach men their greatest lessons. The comets are weak, timid creatures, yet they build their homes in the rocks for safety. Man is here taught to flee to the Rock of Ages for safety. Locusts are little insects and have no king, yet they go forth in companies like an army to battle. From them the lesson of mutual help is taught. The spiders are constantly at work weaving their silken webs in the homes of the lowly and the palaces of the wealthy; teaching us the lessons of industry. The ants, spoken of in our text, are minute animals. By their wisdom and sagacity they lay up food in the summer for the cold winter days.

Take your seat over against an ant-hill. See how busy and active all are. The miniature avenues are resounding with hurried footsteps. There is no more rush in any of our great cities than in the cities of these little creatures. Life is too bright and intense for men to be idle, and God expects every man to be industrious. Honest labor is honorable. The greatest curse of Europe is idleness. This is encouraged by the idleness of great standing armies. Pauperism abounds everywhere. We rejoice that few born Americans are troubled with the disease of pauperism. We should pass laws to keep the chronic pauper out of our country. Men who will not work ought not to be supported by any government.

I wish to hold before you this morning the prince of laborers, the carpenter of Nazareth, the Christ. He never was ashamed to soil his hands with honest toil. He worked constantly to better mankind. He had grace in his heart to help him in his work, and he offers it to you. If you are sick he will cheer you; if you are cold he will warm you with the mantle of his love; if you are weary he will give you rest; if you are an outcast he will give you a home in glory. You can be a better workman if you have Christ's grace in the heart.

The second star in this cluster is HONESTY.

Dishonesty is one of the greatest scourges of the race. It is found everywhere—on the farm, in the shop, behind the counter and before, and at the desk. It enters every profession, trade and form of labor. But "honesty is the best policy." If your employer wishes you to be dishonest, refuse even though it cost you your place. Better lose your position than your character and soul. A man who has lost his position because he refuses to be dishonest, will soon get an advance.

Be honest with yourself, be honest with your fellow men; but do not forget to be honest with your God. Every man owes God his loving service. If you refuse to pay Him this indebtedness you are dishonest. Cultivate candor with God, so that you can be true to this part of your motto.

is the third star in this constellation. Intemperance is the greatest sin of our day. It degrades the physical man, undermines his constitution. When young men get in readiness for the ball game, boat race or wrestling match, they always abstain from intoxicating liquors. They know that stimulants are weakening. Intemperance is ruinous to the mind. Alcohol finds a liquid brain and turns it into a solid. It also ruins the morals and the soul. There seems to be a misunderstanding in this society about the meaning of the word sobriety, a difference of opinion as to when a man steps over the line from sobriety to intemperance. If ten drinks make a man drunk, one drink makes him one-tenth drunk. That is good arithmetic. Your platform is a high one, but none too high for American citizens. Stand firm upon it, unfurl your banner, and give to the breeze your motto, "Industry, Honesty and Sobriety."

Mr. Alford then spoke of this being their fifteenth anniversary, that they had accomplished much, but that their great work was before them. He then addressed them personally, and advised them to seek a personal Saviour and a personal salvation.

Wreck Last Night.

Late last night a freight train was wrecked at Rosby's Rock. The particulars could not be obtained here. The late passenger train from the east had passed that point before the accident, which occurred to freight 63. The east-bound train due at midnight was sent around over the Pittsburgh division.

WILL ESTABLISH AN EXCHANGE.

Prominent Glass and Pottery Firms Decline to have Sample Rooms here.

At the Chamber of Commerce rooms Saturday there was an important meeting of glass and pottery manufacturers, the outcome of which was a decision to establish an exchange or sample rooms in this city for the convenience of visiting buyers of these lines of goods, all the factories to be represented placing there a display of their wares and each having a representative present during each buying season to show the samples and take orders. There has been a good deal of talk for some time past of such an arrangement. The custom of exhibiting ware at the Monongahela house in Pittsburgh, long in vogue, is costly and has other really serious drawbacks. Two or three times a few of the factories have tried the plan of showing samples at the McClure house here, and while this had decided advantages in some respects over the Pittsburgh scheme, it did not still meet the ideas of the manufacturers entirely, and in casting around for some better way of doing business the idea of an exchange here, with room for all glass, pottery and lamp factories which desired to join in the movement met with the most favor, and out of this talk came the meeting of Saturday evening.

The following representatives of different concerns were present: Messrs. C. W. Franzheim, of the Warwick Pottery; F. M. Strong, of the Nail City Lamp and Stamping Company; A. D. Seaman, of the Buckeye Glass Works, Martin's Ferry; Harry Northwood, of the Northwood Glass Works, Martin's Ferry; A. G. Stollenwerk, of the Wheeling Pottery; Capt. Ed. Muhleman, of the Crystal Glass Works, Bridgeport; L. B. Martin, of the Fostoria Glass Works, Mountville; John Dorman, of Wellsburg Glass Works, and Albert Meder, of the Ohio Valley China Company. Mr. Martin was selected as chairman and Mr. Strong as secretary. Mr. Franzheim stated the object of the meeting, as indicated above.

The idea which met with the greatest favor was for each concern to have a separate room, but if possible all in one building, and with a common office or headquarters room. It was thought that this plan would be of great advantage to Wheeling as well as to the manufacturers which go into the scheme.

Messrs. Strong, Franzheim and Northwood were appointed as a committee to investigate the plan and formulate something more definite, and to report as to details of plans, the expense, etc. They will probably report at another meeting to be held in the same place on Wednesday evening. It is thought the plan suggested will effect a decided saving for all the companies. It is the aim to be ready for business for the July trade. There are one or two other houses which it is thought can be brought to see the advantage of the change. The Hobbs and Central works are of course not in it, as they are now part of the United States Glass company.

It is the general opinion that Wheeling can make a much better showing with these companies in it than is made at Pittsburgh.

Here on Railroad Business.

Hon. William Woodyard, ex-senator from Roane county, is in the city. He came up to attend to some business connected with the Ravenswood, Spencer & Glenville railroad. This road, Mr. Woodyard says, is now built to Spencer, and it will be formally opened and the first train run through this morning at 8:30 o'clock. The original intention was to build it independently to Glenville and on to Weston, but the beginning of Senator Camden's road through the interior will probably lead this company to change its plans and intersect that railroad at Burnsville, Braxton county. Mr. Woodyard says that Roane has had her full share of the progress and prosperity which seems to have marked West Virginia for its own in the past year; everybody had a good year, and all are satisfied and happy. He has been too busy to think much in the line of politics, but he regards the appointment of Goff and Elkins as wise and likely to benefit the Republican party in West Virginia.
